At the close of the morning service at Evergreen Baptist Church on Sunday, October 7th, the pastor, Rev. V. L. Hudson, on the right, presented Mr. J. Mott Harvey, center, a special plaque in recognition of his 50 years as a deacon of the church.

Mr. Harvey has been faithful in all activities of the church through the years, witnessing and teaching and has served as Chairman of the Board of Deacons a number of times during these 50 years.

He has been in the hospital several times during the past few months and has been unable to attend regularly in recent weeks.

Visit Local Fire Department

Liberty Baptist Church Kindergarten students from Class I and II visited our local Fire Department on Tuesday of this week in observance of National Fire Prevention Week. They studied fire prevention safety rules and learned about our volunteer firemen.

The firemen who gave them a tour of the station and an opportunity to sit on the fire truck were Mike Johnson, left above, and O. B. Garris, right above.

Their surprise Kindergarten newspaper this week will also stress fire prevention and Smokey the Bear.

An exciting part of their trip was the ride on the big red church bus.

Lists Open Burning Rule

The new open burning rule for the first time lists the type of agricultural and forest management practices for which open burning is allowed.

For agriculture, such exceptions permit burning:

(1) "To destroy undesirable vegetation." (This allows, among other things, burning to clear tobacco plant beds, the board staff says.)

(2) To clear orchards and orchard prunings, (3) to destroy fertilizer and chemical containers, and (4) to denature seed and grain no longer suitable for agricultural purposes - all three of these being allowed only "when no other means of disposal is reasonable available."

(5) To prevent loss from forest or freeze damage; and

(6) "To create a favorable food and cover habitat for certain speceies of wildlife." To burn in this case, the rule says prior permission must be obtained from the air board's executive director with the advice of the executive director of the Virginia Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries.

For burning for all the specified farm practices as well as for forest management, the fire must be at least 1,000 feet from any occupied building unless the occupants have given prior permission. And the fires, as in all other cases, must be attended at all times.

For forest management, the rule approves open burning when it is undertaken "in bona fide exercise of forest management practices approved by the board." The burning also must be "under the continuous supervision of experienced persons, and shall be planned and managed to minimize adverse environmental effects."

Such burning is approved:

"(1) to reduce forest fuels, and thus prevent, or minimize, the effect of wildfires.

"(2) to control undesirable growth of hardwood within stands of pine trees.

"(3) to control disease in pine seedlings.

"(4) to prepare forest land for the planting of tree seedlings or by direct seeding."
